Dr. Shearer grew up in Rose Bud, Arkansas, where his parents taught in the public school. He attended college at Harding University and went on to obtain his dental degree from the University of Tennessee-Memphis College of Dentistry. After graduation, he worked several years in a community health center serving eastern and central Arkansas before entering into private practice.

A member of the American Dental Association, Dr. Shearer has engaged in extensive postgraduate education courses, with specific training in root canal therapy, smile makeovers, full mouth rehabilitation, treatment of TMJ disorders, implant placement, and implant restorations. His commitment to lifelong education ensures the highest level of care for his patients. To quote his wife, he is truly a "dental nerd."

Dr. Shearer is an active participant in the community, serving as a deacon for his church. He has participated in several medical mission trips to Latin America. In addition, he visits nearby schools to teach oral health to children and conducts oral health exams for military servicemen. In his spare time, Dr. Shearer enjoys spending time with his wife Ashley and their children, Ben and Audrey, as well as hunting and fishing.
